

Look to the future

Keeping the Destinations dream alive should be Rockdale residents' New Year's resolution and our main focus should be the Brighton Pier project.

We should be grateful for the Labor, Liberal and independent councillors who supported this futuristic project.

Change is a law of life and those who look only to the past will miss the future.

We residents of Rockdale are fortunate to be living in potentially the best municipality in Sydney. Anthony Horden's motto was: "While I live I grow", so I say to the knockers with their myopic views – throw away your dark glasses and get yourself some rose-coloured lenses; forget your selective nostalgic memories of the past and come along for a joyful ride into the future, which can't be done while staring into your rearview mirrors.
