

A growers market is top idea

I was interested to read (Leader, July 18) that Rockdale Council is considering an application for a growers market in Bay Street. What a great idea!

Given the St George area's ethnic and cultural diversity, this is something that is way overdue. If anything, I'm surprised it hasn't happened sooner. There are growers markets all over Sydney which do really well, with the exception of the southern suburbs – we're poorly served in this area.

I recall a while ago that Hurstville Council was considering a market but, obviously, that idea was shelved.

Full credit to Rockdale Council for considering a growers market and let's hope it goes ahead and encourages other councils in St George and Sutherland Shire to do the same.
