

Manilow keeps the party peace

FORGET the $4 million Harbour fireworks — a Sydney council is offering New Years Eve revellers a night with Barry Manilow.

Buoyed by the crooner's success in deterring hoodlums, Rockdale Council will host a New Year party featuring the singer's classic hits.

Manilow songs have helped the council in its war against hoons, discouraging them from congregating in Brighton-le-Sands.